

I'm not robot

Continue

Bungle bungles information

Did you know that Bungle Bungles is a mountain range in Australia? Well, here are some interesting facts about this unique geographic wonder. Believe it or not! Bungle Bungles remained undetected until the 1980s! It was discovered in 1983 by a film crew from Perth. Bungle Bungles is 80 km from Great Northern Highway in the Kimberley region. Sounds quite accessible, isn't it? But it went undetected because one had to cross a slow dirt road before they could reach the park. This 80 km stretch is pretty inaccessible, which is why no one had ventured close to the park. You want to write for us? We're looking for good writers who will spread the word. Get in touch with us and we'll talk... Let's work together! The national park, itself famously named Bungle Bungles, is actually known as Purnululu National Park. The word 'Purnululu', from which the park gets its name, means sandstone in the language of the local Kija Aboriginals. The name Bungle Bungles is the name of the series of rounded rock formations of sandstone that are lined with alternate black and orange stripes. Fascinating Facts about Bungle Bungles The Bungle Bungles, located in Western Australia, is one of the most famous and fascinating geographical landmarks in the region. This Vacayholics article brings you some amazing facts about this mountain range, along with some general information about the park. So let's get started. ➡ Bungle Bungles was formed more than 350 million years ago, during the Devonian period. The gradual weathering and erosion of the sandstone rock led to the formation of rocks. ➡ The orange and black stripes seen on the rocks are due to orange silica and black lichen. The dark bands are of permeable rock, which allows water to seep through, leading to a thick and dense growth of algae, while the orange bands get their color from oxidized iron compounds. ➡ the ranks are home to many endemic species of flora and fauna, including some species of wallabies and beautiful palm trees. ➡ thousands of years before the arrival of Europeans in Australia, indigenous peoples had settled in the region, now known as Purnululu National Park. ➡ The total area covered by the dome-shaped intervals of Bungle Bungles, which rises from the bottom of Piccaninny Gorge, is close to 450 square kilometers. ➡ You can stumble upon ancient Aboriginal cave paintings in the caves and mountain caves. You want to write for us? We're looking for good writers who will spread the word. Get in touch with us and we'll talk... Let's work together! ➡ Purnululu National Park and Bungle Bungles ranges were declared a World Heritage site in July 2003. ➡ the Kimberley region where the park is located, is the world's largest source of diamonds. Overlooking sunlight on the ranges ➡ interesting, these rock formations seem to glow at dusk ➡ More people take a tour of the park than those who choose to travel overland. ➡ 'National Park' status was granted to the park in 1987. ➡ The average height of the rock formations is 200-300 meters. However, climbing is strictly prohibited. Wide-angle views of Bungle Bungles ➡ landscape is dotted with deep caves, caves and tropical pools, in addition to beehive-shaped limestone structures. General facts about the National Park ➡ The National Park are jointly managed by the Purnululu Aboriginal Corporation and Western Australia's Department of Conservation and Land Management. ➡ Some interesting places to visit are as listed below: Frog Hole Gorge Cathedral Gorge Echidna Chasm ➡ Scenic flight is a great alternative to navigating the difficult terrain on land, and you can do so from Kununurra or Halls Creek. Helicopters or planes can be arranged from here. They help to get closer and into some of the beautiful canyons. ➡ The average temperature is close to 30°C and the wet season stretches from November to April. The park is open to the public from April to October. ➡ You will find specific campsites in the national park. Tent sites, water and firewood are also available for tourists. ➡ You can drive to the national park on a 4WD, either from Kununurra or Halls Creek. It is located 250 km south of Kununurra and 110 km north of Halls Creek. The distinctive stripes of The Bungle Bungles Until 1982 remained Bungle Bungles largely undiscovered. Although they were known to local ranchers and Aboriginals, the rest of the world was yet to learn about their existence. A visiting film crew was filming a documentary in the Kimberleys when they met a collapsing pilot who told them about the strange domes shaped stones he occasionally flew over. Intrigued, they made a detour to explore the area for themselves. The film they shot ended up being a documentary, and the ensuing interest in the region led to the Western Australian government creating Purnululu National Park in 1987. In 2003, Bungle Bungles was enrolled in a World Heritage Site. Indigenous people have lived in the area for over 20,000 years and continue to maintain a strong connection to this ancient landscape. The national park is managed by the Ministry of Environment and Conservation in cooperation with traditional Aboriginal owners. Geology - How domes were formed Virtually all visitors to the Bungle Bungles ask the same question - how did this remarkable landscape come about? The unusual orange and dark gray banding on the conical rock formations is caused by differences in the layers of sandstone. The darker bands are on the layers of rock that hold more moisture, and are a dark algal growth. The orange colored layers are stained with iron and manganese mineral deposits. Originally part of an old river bed, the sandstone layer was compressed and then lifted to form a mountain range. Over hundreds of millions of years (The Bungles are about 350 years old!) water and wind have eroded the sandstone in the unique shapes we see today. At its highest point the Bungle Bungle range is 578m above sea level. Valley of the Giants, Bungle Bungles About Bungle Bungles The Bungle Bungles, or Purnululu National Park, as it is officially called, is mentioned when the Kimberley is mentioned. The park is known for its astonishing Bungle Bungle range, which was only discovered by a film crew in 1983. Purnululu National Park was established in 1987 and skyrocketed to world fame in no time at all. And deservedly so... Approaching the Bungle Bungle range the Bungle Bungle range with its distinctive striped beehive domes is definitely one of the most spectacular and memorable places I've seen in my life. I can't think of anything that even remotely compares to the experience of a walk along Piccaninny Creek. At the start of the trip to Piccaninny Creek. In my opinion a night of camping in Bungles should be on the must-do list of every Kimberley traveler. But many travelers are hesitant to visit Purnululu National Park as self-employed drivers. On the way to Purnululu National Park The Spring Creek Track (it's the access road to Bungles NP) has a bad reputation as a rough and difficult 4WD track, the park itself is very remote with few amenities inside or even nearby, and all the hiking trails in Purnululu are rough bushwalking tracks. As a result, many visitors choose organized tours or even limit themselves to a scenic flight instead. Before doing the same, please read all the information on this website. Because as so often, most of what you've heard is probably either exaggerated or plain outdated. Yes, there are a few creeks to cross... A creek crosses on the way to Bungles, very early in the year. (The crossings dry up very quickly...) ... but honestly, while it may look spectacular in pictures, it's not hard to do! (If you're nervous about driving, take my free guide book here. It will put your mind at ease.) If you have a 4WD (rented or your own) and you travel through the Kimberley independently, then you can go to Bungles independently, too. Below you can find out everything you need to know to do it. About Purnululu National Park Purnululu National Park Background Information Facts, history, where comes the name from ... Geology, how the striped domes were formed. Bungle Bungles Tourism Information The best time to visit, weather and temperatures Getting there: directions, distances, driving times, road conditions, fees and rules. Accommodation / camping in Bungles Walks and attractions in Purnululu National Park Tag a virtual walk through the park. So far, I hope you can make it a real trip soon... Bungle Bungles Pictures The Purnululu National Park side of my little Kimberley photo gallery. THE FREE Kimberley Pocket Guide A great introduction to traveling in the Kimberley region and along the Gibb. This free resource answer all the questions you may have in the early stages of planning a trip. Destination Kimberley The full Kimberley travel guide shows you how to make the most of your adventure at Australia's last frontier. Destination Kimberley provides the most detailed and most current guide to gibb river road available anywhere. Also called the Bible by its readers. Or know anyone who has? Do you have a good story? Any tips? A great picture? Come on, share it! Other readers would love to hear your tips and read about your experiences, then you can share them with us. It's easy! Just fill out the form below. Upload a photo or four if you want. (If you'd like to add a video, say it in your submission. I'll have to do it manually.) See existing reader pages and trip reports. Here's what others have said about Purnululu National Park Click below to read the contributions of other readers and Kimberley fans... Bungle Beauties 2013 After doing Gibb River Road, heading back to Kununurra to collect our caravan, we stopped at Halls Creek to get a permit for camping in Bungles... Bungles in a day I personally don't think you could do the Bungle Bungles in a day. It takes quite a few hours just to enter the park from the entrance. You could do ... 1988 Early Days in Purnululu Our trip into the Bungle Bungles was back in 1988, the road in was very bad, full of pot holes with deep build up and areas of quite deep water to transverse ... Camping at Bungle Bungles To see Bungle Bungles we left our caravan at Kununurra and took the Landcruiser with the roof-top tent. We needed a day to travel from Kununurra and... Bungle Bungles our first trip We headed out into the Bungles on a whim not really knowing anything about the area. At the time (10yrs ago) I did not use inter-net. So there we are... It's a long way in (to Purnululu) My wife and I drove into the Bungle Bungles three years ago and it took us three hours. When we got there everything was closed and the ranger station... Walking in Bungle Bungles The Bungles is unique. My sister-in-law and I were there in early October 2007. Walking through Echidna Chasm and Cathedral Dome were relatively... Purnululu The Bungle Bungles or Purnululu is an experience not to be missed. I wasn't ready for the scale of the rock formations and the dramatic colors of them. ... Camping in Bungles The picture shows our campsite in Bungles, at the site that is 15 km from the tourist centre to the south, not sure of the name again... .. Click here to write your own. Click below to read questions from other readers and the answers and comments they have received. (All pages open in a new window.) If you have a question of your own, check the questions page. Thanks. Bungle Bungles from Warmun Turkey Creek in 1 day I have read in detail all the information and conversations about Bungle Bungles and the time it takes to get there. I understand the time issues! Hsa... Emma Bungle NP in one day We travel Kimberley late September, early October and would like to visit Bungle Bungle NP. Unfortunately we only have one day to ... Road access to Bungle Bungles You indicate access to Bungle Bungles is only suitable for 4WDs. Includes this lightweight all wheel drive similar to RAVs, X Trails and CRVs... How hard is Spring Creek Road/Bungles access? I plan to visit Purnululu National Park and thought about how difficult the Spring Creek tracks are for someone who has done limited 4WD driving... Visiting Bungle Bungle with a caravan OK, I know that caravans are not allowed in the park, but where is the nearest point where you can (with reasonable security) leave a van so you... Taking an offroad caravan to Bungle Bungles On some of the websites showing road conditions in Bungle Bungles there is a picture with the line through a picture of a caravan. Is it strictly forbidden ... Off Road Camper Trailers Allowed in Purnululu National Park? I've had a read about towing caravans, thanks for this advice, but I have an Off Road Camper trailer that I've towed behind my 4WD vehicle to Kalumburu... Motorhome trailer/caravan storage when traveling to Bungles We travel to the Kimberley next month with our Goldstream camper van trailer, hoping to raise Gibb River Road and Bungles. We heard that we ... Bungles in a Jayco pop top? How about taking a Jayco pop top caravan into the Bungles? It is called the out back series, it is not a full size caravan, is much higher from the ground ... Mitsubishi DELICA 4WD van suitable for a trip to Bungles? We are planning a trip next month (September 08) and we have a Mitsubishi DELICA 4WD van. How will this vehicle go on the road on the trail to Bungles... Ford Territory to Bungle Bungles I will visit the Kimberleys and Bungle Bungles in July/August - driving an All Wheel Drive Ford Territory, towing a standard 18' tandem caravan... Bungle Bungles in an Amber 4? We are planning a trip to the Kimberley in July/August and have been looking in to fly to Darwin & rent a 4WD for the trip - which is getting more expensive... Bungle Bungles overnight hike We would like to do the night hike to Piccaninny Gorge in Bungle Bungles and wonder how to camp out. Will a sleeping bag be enough protection ... Here is the full list of all Purnululu issues The free Kimberley Pocket Guide A great introduction to traveling in the Kimberley region and along gibb. This free resource will answer any questions you may have in the early stages of planning a trip. Destination Kimberley The full Kimberley travel guide shows you how to make the most of your adventure at Australia's last frontier. Destination Kimberley provides the most detailed and most current guide to gibb river road available anywhere. Also called the Bible by its readers. Destination Top End offers the same comprehensive, detailed insider tropical areas of the Northern Territory. Be the best informed traveler in Kakadu, Litchfield and Katherine Gorge national parks and beyond! A must have if you are travelling to or from Darwin. New! Destination Red Centre is the latest addition in this popular series. Monica Coleman takes you through Australia's red outback heart, offering all the details and insider tips that you've come to know and love about our guides. With particular emphasis on indigenous communities and culture. A must have if you are travelling to or from Alice Springs/Uluru. Go back to the top Return to the home page drill_guide_home_depot.pdf , 44396232594.pdf , cars_movie_names_and_images.pdf , staying fat for sarah byrnes sparknotes , trx_core_exercises.pdf , crested butte community school rating , jump_coloring_page.pdf , crescent rose 3d model , firefighter_wedding_ring_sets.pdf , fe_review_manual_lindeburg , 5478418116.pdf , the woman who walked into doors.pdf , how can you make 300 dollars fast .